By submitting an Order or Order Form for either a standard or tailored Ops Box ©, the Customer acknowledges that they are bound to the Terms and Conditions as outlined below:

The information in The Ops Box © has been prepared using the best information available as at the date of printing, and should be used for general guidance only.

No content within The Ops Box ©, including that referring to legislative obligations or responsibilities, should be relied upon as a substitute for advice by a qualified legal practitioner. We advise that you should always check the legislation referred to in The Ops Box © and make your own judgement about what action you may need to take to ensure you have complied with the law.

We have provided a list below of suggested legislation references. We also advise that you may have legal obligations to your employees under an agreement such as an award, workplace agreement or employment contract and you should ensure that any such obligations and the content of The Ops Box © are not in conflict with each other.

Whilst every effort is made to ensure accuracy at the time of printing, Mojo Consulting, its Employees and/or associated entities do not make any representations or warranties (expressed or implied) as to the accuracy, currency or authenticity of the information with The Ops Box ©. Accordingly, Mojo Consulting, its Employees and/or associated entities do not accept any liability for any injury, loss or damage incurred by use of, or reliance on the information included within the guidance material of The Ops Box ©.

Please note that while the purpose and intent of the Ops Box will remain, the format and presentation of the Ops Box may change over time. Should additional copies of the Ops Box or individual policies and/or procedures be required, Mojo Consulting and Recruitment make no guarantees that these will be compatible with the customer's original product purchase.
